Japanese Banks Push Further Ahead in Top 500 Deposit Race

ranked among the top 10.

These are some of the findings of the American Banker's 30th annual survey of the world's top 500 banks, ranked by deposits, published today. The top 500 world banks ranked by assets will be published on Wednesday.

From Sept. 30, 1984, to Sept. 30, 1985 — the dates of the figures for all Japanese banks in the survey — the yen appreciated 14.1% against the dollar. Because the deposits of foreign banks are converted into dollars, a rise in exchange rates of foreign currencies against the dollar increases these banks' dollar-denominated deposits.

In addition to a rise in exchange rates, the 96 Japanese banks posted a 10% rise in their yen-denominated deposits last year. As a result, the dollar-denominated deposits of these Japanese banks rose by 24.5% last year.

The 96 Japanese banks in the top 500 had combined deposits totaling $2.18 trillion last year, or 31% of the top 500 banks' deposit total of $7.02 trillion. In 1984, the 95 Japanese banks ranked among the top 500 had $1.75 trillion in deposits, or 29.8% of the $5.85 trillion deposit total for the top 500 banks. Japanese banks accounted for almost 37% of the deposit gain posted by the top 500 banks.

Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank Ltd., Tokyo, solidified its position as the world's top bank in deposits with $124.6 billion, up 31% from $95.1 billion a year earlier. Dai-Ichi Kangyo had surpassed Bank of America as the world's top deposit-taking institution in 1984.

The sharp appreciation of the yen since Sept. 30 has pushed up the dollar-denominated deposits of Dai-Ichi Kango Bank even further. According to preliminary data recently received from the bank, total deposits on March 31, 1986, totaled 26.9 trillion yen, virtually unchanged from its Sept. 30 total. However, the yen appreciated 21.7% over that six-month period, from $0.004626 per yen to $0.005629. As a result, the dollar-denominated deposits of Dai-Ichi Kangyo rose by the same percentage as the yen to approximately $151.6 billion on March 31, from $124.6 billion on Sept. 30.

Fuji Bank Ltd., Tokyo, remained in second place, with deposits of $109.7 billion, up 21% from 1984; and Sumitomo Bank Ltd., Osaka, again was third, with $108.5 billion, up 20.7% from the year before.

Mitsubishi Bank Ltd., Tokyo, moved up a notch to fourth place, with deposits of $102.8 billion, up 17.8% from the preceding year.

The other three Japanese banks ranking among the top 10 are Sanwa Bank Ltd., Osaka, which ranked sixth; Norinchukin Bank, Tokyo, which ranked ninth; and the Industrial Bank of Japan Ltd., Tokyo, which ranked 10th.

Sanwa Bank moved up two places in rank, with a 22% deposit gain to $99.1 billion. Norinchukin Bank had a 27% deposit gain to $93.2 billion to move up four places in rank. And the Industrial Bank of Japan jumped five places in rank, with deposits of $89.7 billion, 26% higher than the year before.

Largest Non-Japanese Bank

Banque National de Paris is the largest non-Japanese bank in the world and ranks fifth overall, with deposits of $102.5 billion on Dec. 31, 1985, up 23.8% from $82.8 billion in 1984, when it ranked seventh. It was helped by the 29.1% appreciation of the franc from yearend 1984 to yearend 1985.

Credit Lyonnais, Paris, moved up three places in rank to seventh place, with $95.7 billion in deposits, up 23.5% from the year before.

Citibank, New York, the largest bank in the United States, ranked eighth in the world last year, with deposits of $94.4 billion, up 18.6% from $79.6 billion at yearend 1984, when the bank ranked ninth.

The Bank of America — the world's top bank in 1983 — ranked 12th last year, with deposits of $88.2 billion, virtually unchanged from its yearend 1984 total, when it ranked fourth.

Reasons for Japanese Growth

Shigeru Abe, chief economist of the Institute for Financial Affairs, Tokyo, cited several reasons for the continued strong growth of yen-denominated deposits at Japanese banks in 1985.

First was the strong Japanese economy. "The Japanese economy as a whole continued to expand at a moderate pace in 1985, with a high level of exports. The current account shows a large surplus of $49.2 billion. As a result, GNP for 1985 is estimated to be 320 trillion yen, with a 5.7% nominal growth rate and a 4.2% real growth rate.

Second, he said the banks continued to reap benefits from he deregulation and liberalization which began in late 1984. "The Ministry of Finance has steadily endeavoured to permit new banking services and new kinds of products in financial institutions.

For example, Japanese banks started to sell money market certificates, a new product in Japan, in March 1985. In April 1985, the ministry lowered the minimum denomination of certificates of deposit from 300 million yen to 100 million yen and the minimum term of a CD from three months to one month. These measures have encouraged deposits in domestic branches of various kinds of banks and financial institutions."

The trust banks also introduced a new product called a "tokkin." This is a "specially designated money-in-trust account" offering liquidity and a relatively high rate of interest.

Mr. Abe said, "The deposit gains of Japanese trust banks also reflect the increase of pension trusts and CDs."

Mr. Abe attributed the 15% growth of Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank's domestic deposits last year largely to the bank's marketing campaign on the occasion of its 15th anniversary.

Reasons for Dollar's Decline

The major reason for the decline in the dollar last year was the U.S. current account deficit, which reached a record level in 1985. Imports exceeded exports by $132.1 billion in 1985, up 22.5% from the $107.9 billion deficit in 1984 and more than double the $57.6 billion deficit of 1983.

The large trade deficits were attributable to the strong appreciation of the dollar against all the major currencies of the world over the past several years. The strong dollar was pushing the prices of U.S. products so high that they were uncompetitive in the rest of the world, threatening the country's industrial capabilities. And this in turn was leading to demands in Congress for protectionist legislation.

Against this backdrop, the finance

Honolulu Thrift Posts Record 1st-Half Earnings

Special to the American Banker

HONOLULU — Territorial Savings and Loan Association, recovering from serious financial difficulties, has reported record first-half earnings.

The Honolulu-based thrift, Hawaii's second-smallest with total assets of $302.4 million, reported that net earnings through June 30 exceeded $4.5 million. The profits compare with a $603,000 loss during the same period last year.

Territorial president Daniel L. Colin said first-quarter earnings were $2.43 million, followed by second-quarter earnings of $2.1 million. Much of the first-quarter earnings resulted from extraordinary gains on security sales. Second-quarter earnings, meanwhile, reflected a settlement — believed to be of more than $1 million — from a lengthy court battle with two former directors who allegedly defrauded Territorial while on the thrift's board.

But Mr. Colin said operating profits also have increased steadily since January, and he attributed Territorial's improved performance to reduced expenses and strong loan demand, a result of lower interest rates.

Territorial, with 11 offices in the islands, closed more than 300 mortgage loans for a total of $29.8 million since January, more than all loans generated in 1985, Mr. Colin said. ■ that opinion.

"There was a case here in which a savings and loan was offering special rates to women only and that was ruled illegal because it discriminated against men," the regulatory official said. "But anybody could become a stockholder [of Glenfed] if they wanted to."

William Moore Jr., president of Trident Financial Corp., a Raleigh, N.C., consulting firm, said that for years he has been advising converting thrifts to sell as much stock as they can to their customer base. "They're much more likely to develop a good relationship with shareholders that way." The converse — endeavoring to turn shareholders into customers — sounds equally sensible, he added.

Benefits have been given to shareholders before, although never before on a scale as large as Glendale Federal's, Mr. Moore said. "It [the benefits] cements business relationships," he said.

Frank M. Pruett, president of the North American Savings Association, a $420 million-asset Kansas City institution that recently converted from mutual to stock ownership, said it practices a "soft-sell" version of cross-selling to investors. On a routine basis, he said, the thrift "reminds" shareholders that it also offers the services of an insurance firm, finance firm, and travel agency.

"I tell our marketing people that, 'Right now, these are our friends,' " he said of North American's shareholders, adding that the thrift might try Glendale Federal's direct approach.

But not all shareholders may be so easily approachable, said Bob Bartlett, senior vice president for the U.S. League. "People who buy shares are usually investor types, not likely to become depositors," he said. "The shareholder profile is more conservative."

A representative of California Federal Savings and Loan Association in Los Angles was similarly skeptical. While conceding that the cross-selling campaign was "an interesting concept," he said that Calfed objects to the kind of two-tiered pricing embodied in Glenfed's bonus rate. ■ ministers of the United States, France, Germany, Britain, and Japan agreed at a meeting at the Plaza Hotel in New York on Sept. 22, 1985, that foreign exchange rates should "better reflect fundamental economic conditions." The so-called Group of Five, or G-5, countries pledged "to cooperate more closely in fostering "some further orderly appreciation of the main nondollar currencies" — in other words, to intervene in world currency markets to drive down the dollar against other currencies, making American goods more competitive abroad.

Since the G-5 meeting, the yen has appreciated by more than 38% vis-a-vis the dollar; the French franc by more than 18%; the West German mark by more than 25%; and the British pound by about 10%.

Although all foreign banks are surveyed directly, savings bank data have been difficult to obtain. Three savings bank associations have provided the American Banker with the bulk of the data for the savings banks in their respective countries.

They are: the Association of Swiss Cantonal Banks, Basel, Switzerland; the Confederacion Espanola de Cajas de Ahorros, Madrid; and the Trustee Savings Bank Central Board, London. In addition, the Institute for Financial Affairs Inc., Tokyo, has been an invaluable source of data for Japanese savings ("sogo") banks. ■

Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank Is World Leader in Assets

Japanese Firm Surpasses Citicorp in First Quarter

By L. MICHAEL CACACE and THERESIA TREPEL

NEW YORK — Helped by the sharp appreciation of the yen against the dollar, Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank Ltd., Tokyo, surpassed Citicorp in total assets at the end of the first quarter of 1986, and now ranks as the top banking company in the world.

Citicorp — which is listed as the top banking firm in today's rankings based on yearend 1985 assets — had ranked as the world's top bank holding company for four consecutive years.

The yen surged 21.7% against the dollar over the six-month period from Sept. 30, 1985, to March 31, 1986, from $0.004626 per yen to $0.005629.

Because the assets of Japanese banks are converted into dollars, a rise in the yen against the dollar increases these banks' dollar-denominated assets. As a result, the dollar-denominated assets of Dai-Ichi Kangyo soared 30.9% to $207.2 billion on March 31 from $158.3 billion on Sept. 30, 1985.

Based on Sept. 30 assets, which are used for all Japanese banks in the American Banker's world bank rankings, Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank ranked second to Citicorp.

Citicorp had total assets of $167.2 billion on Dec. 31, 1985, up 17.1% from $142.7 billion a year earlier to maintain its No. 1 ranking last year. In the first quarter of 1986, its assets rose 5.2% to $175.9 billion on March 31.

These are some of the findings of part two of the American Banker's 30th annual world banking survey published

Tax Conferees Move to Erase Loan-Loss Reserve Deduction

By BARTLETT NAYLOR

Tax Bill Update

WASHINGTON — Senate tax writers have proposed eliminating the deduction for bank loan-loss reserves and for interest expense used to finance investment in municipal bonds, moves that are expected to spark a storm of protest from the banking industry.

The proposals reverse the position adopted when the full Senate approved its version of tax reform in June.

Tax experts with the American Bankers Association, which unveiled a major advertising campaign before the Senate Finance Committee took up the issue of tax reform last spring, were not available for comment.

With the sponsorship of Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., and Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., the loan-loss reserve was protected both in the committee and the full Senate.

State and local governments helped lobby for banks taking the interest deduction.

Essentially, the Senate tax writers adopted the bank tax provisions approved by the House. While the negotiations currently are informal, the action on Tuesday increased the probability that the financial industry will be paying a significant level of new taxes.

The loan-loss reserve deduction means that banks can keep 0.6% of their loans in a tax-free reserve.

The Senate had protected the deduction, while the House proposed ending it for banks with more than $500 million in assets. By taxing the reserve, banks would be paying a collective $6 billion to $8 billion.

The House bill already denies the carrying cost deduction for investments in municipal bonds. Also in the House bill, the loan-loss reserve balances of commercial banks affected would be taxed effective 1985. The tax on the balances would be phased in over five years.

The 11 senators on the 22-member House-Senate conference working out the details of a final tax bill have been struggling to find ways of raising revenues to pay for the low individual and corporate tax rates in the Senate version of the bill.

On Tuesday, the senators and House members on the tax conference met in private meetings, and the proposal re-
